TRIBUTES

To Everything Irish Paid by Loyal Hibernians at Banquet.

St. Patrick's Day Fittingly Observed With Speech and Story.

Eloquent Addresses From Able Representatives of the Order.

MENU AN EXCELLENT STYLE

Of the several social functions in honor of St. Patrick's day in and around the Falls Cities, none brought forth a larger crowd of fair women and able men than did the Hibernian banquet at the Galt House Wednesday night. It was in Lent and on a day of abstinence from flesh meat besides, but Manager O'Shaughnessy showed them that there were vands just as appetizing as venison, beef or birds. Fish and vegetables with dainty ices were served in befitting style, and all left praising the cuisine of the Galt House.

But after the physical man had been fully satisfied the committee on Arrangements provided a feast for the brain and the heart of every Hibernian man and woman. County President P. J. Welsh was toast-master and although it was his first essay in that line, he acquitted himself in excellent style. It was he who welcomed the guests with a "Caled Millie Fialhe," and who made happy introductions of each of the speakers. While the banquet was in progress Collins' orchestra played Irish melodies and martial music, and at the close of the evening all joined in singing "The Harp That Once Thro' Tara's Halls."

After his welcoming address and his tribute to the Ladies' Auxiliary, County President Welsh introduced State President George J. Butler, whose theme was "Hibernianism." Mr. Butler was interesting, brief and to the point. He said there was nothing higher, nothing nobler in temporal affairs than the motto of the order—Friendship, Unity and Christian Charity. He told how the order was increasing in membership, and he appealed to Kentucky Hibernians to make the order as strong here as it is in other sections of the country.

Attorney J. J. Kavanagh was quite poetic in his remarks, and used many pretty figures of speech as, for instance: "Ireland! There is magic in the very name. It annihilates both time and space. It carries us beyond the seas and we stand on her sacred soil. Listen! We can hear the music of the bells of Shandon, see rising through the mists the shamrock clad hills of Tara, yonder the sweet vale of Avoca lies before you, here lay in all their lovely charm and silvery beauty Killarney's lakes."

In his peroration Mr. Kavanagh said: "My friends, we can not, and we should not forget the past. We should dwell lovingly on the sacrifices and unselfishness of those who have gone before. Let us, my friends, strive to emulate, insofar as we can, the splendid example set by those of other days. Let us, even in this work-a-day world, put aside jealousies and prejudices and petty quarrels and, united for a common cause, the progress, advancement and ultimate freedom of Ireland, so live that we may be worthy of her golden and unforgotten past; that these words may be truly said of us: 'Souls of fire, like columns pointing flame-like upward to the skies; Glorious brows which God's anointing consecrated altar-wise. Stainless hearts, like temples olden. None but priest hath ever trod; Hands as pure as were the golden Staves which bore the ark of God.'"

County Vice President Joseph Lynch responded to the toast, "God of the Order." He eulogized the men who established the order in the old land and in the new, and urged the present members to follow in the footsteps of their predecessors, that they wish to see the order flourish and win its proper place in the community.

Attorney William P. McDonogh paid tribute to the Irish in America, and recalled deeds of prowess performed by sons of Erin in the United States from the Revolutionary war to the present time. Among other things he said: "Right in this country we sought refuge. The land of the free and the home of the brave was open to us when our own soil was fortified against us by the foe-man. We came here as fugitives, and received with open arms, and we have repaid the debt of gratitude by becoming a factor in the business and industrial world."

Miss Mary Corcoran spoke for the Ladies' Auxiliary, and gave an account of that body's history in Louisville as well as throughout the nation. She said the good done by the local division of the auxiliary could not be estimated. She closed by urging all members of the auxiliary to attend the ball to be given at the Galt House on Easter Tuesday night.

"The Ladies" was the delicate subject assigned to Attorney Patrick T. Sullivan, yet he did not balk at the task. He paid high tribute to the women of Ireland from the time of St. Brigid to the present day. He declared the daughters of Erin to be faithful, gentle, loving, kind and a credit to Ireland, or to any country in which they resided.

Attorney Thomas Walsh made the principal address of the evening in response to the toast, "The Day We Celebrate." Although Mr. Walsh was in a happy vein, there was a deep tinge of religious reverence running through his address. In speaking of St. Patrick he said: "They have made him the most popular saint in the history of the world. Everybody loves St. Patrick, everybody has heard of him, everybody venerates his memory and applauds the great deeds that he performed long ago in converting Ireland to Christianity. Now, my friends, we all love St. Patrick because he is the apostle of our country. He, like Moses of old, led our forefathers out of the land of darkness and of bondage into the light of day and into the glorious revelations of the New Testament. He led us into the promised land, bolder and sweeter for us all by the smiles and tears, the song and laughter of his handsome women and brave men. St. Patrick was the real emancipator of our race."

In conclusion Mr. Walsh said: "And let me observe in this connection that wherever you find the Irish, whether in public or in private life, whether marching in processions or deliberating in assemblies upon questions of public policy intended for the public good, you will always find Hibernians in the forefront of the van by their counsel and wisdom, leading their followers onward in the achievement of all things that tend to prompt the best interest and welfare of their race. And among other things, you will notice that wherever you may discover them upon the face of this round globe as the years go by, you will find them celebrating St. Patrick's day by song and speech and story, even as we are celebrating it here tonight."

BEGIN EARLY.

Mobile Knights of Columbus Enlist Leading Citizens.

Members of the order in Mobile are taking time by the forelock in their efforts to arrange a suitable reception for the national convention of the Knights of Columbus, which will assemble in that city during the week beginning August 2. They sent a delegation to the directory of the Mobile Commercial Club last week. Matt Mahorner, Jr., chairman of the delegation, stated the object of the visit of himself and his colleagues, which was for the purpose of discussing the question of the entertainment of the national convention. He explained that the convention would attract to Mobile Knights from every State in the Union, Canada, Mexico, Cuba and possibly the Philippines. Their entertainment, he said, was intended to be without regard to creed, and he promised that Mobile would receive more advertisement from any gathering ever held within her gates.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted: That Mr. M. Mahorner, representing the Knights of Columbus, invite the Chamber of Commerce, Cotton Exchange and Commercial Club to appoint a committee to confer on the subject of providing ways and means to meet the expenses incident to the entertainment of the city's guests and to arrange a programme of entertainment, this committee to meet in the rooms of the Commercial Club March 18.

The action of the directory was entirely satisfactory to the visiting K. C. delegation.

ETERNAL REST

For Veteran Soldier and Citizen Who Is Widely Mourned.

The funeral of Capt. John O'Daly, who died at the family residence, 705 Florence Place, on Friday morning of last week, took place from St. Louis Bertrand's church on Monday morning. The deceased was seventy-five years of age and a native of Indiana, but had spent the greater part of his life in Louisville. Capt. O'Daly was a blacksmith by trade, but at the outbreak of the civil war espoused the Federal cause and was made Captain of a company of volunteers that served throughout the war. After peace was declared he returned to Louisville and resumed his trade of blacksmith. He was quiet, inoffensive, a hard worker, steady, sober, a kind husband and an affectionate father. For more than forty years he had resided with his family in St. Louis Bertrand's parish.

Forty-seven years ago Capt. O'Daly married Miss Sarah Murphy, of this city, who survives him. As a result of this union the following children were born: Eugene O'Daly, of Versailles; Joseph, Thomas and John O'Daly, Jr., and Misses Alice and Sarah O'Daly. All of them survive their father and were with him when he died. He is also survived by a brother, Eugene O'Daly, acting Chief of detectives, and the senior detective in the bureau. A few years ago his sister, Sister Hildegard, a well beloved Sister of Charity, died at Nazareth Academy.

His funeral, which took place from St. Louis Bertrand's church Monday morning, was well attended by many old friends and comrades in arms.

GAVE TWO FINE FLAGS.

Preceding the last exemplification of the degrees by the Milwaukee Hibernians an American and an Irish flag were presented to Monsignor Keogh, pastor of St. John's Cathedral, for the new Cathedral Institute, by Prof. Rohan, of Marquette University, on behalf of the local division. The flags are handsome and each 12x24 feet in dimension. They will fly from the flag poles of the institute on all Irish and American holidays.

LEADERS

Of Liberal Party Bow to Will of the Irish Executive Heads.

How Arthur Dewar Was Forced to Make Straightforward Answer.

Attacks of O'Brien Have Solidified People in Adhesion to Home Rule.

TRITE TALK FROM O'CONNOR

"The leaders of the Irish Parliamentary party are standing pat on the proposition to put the same questions to every Liberal candidate hereafter, as they did to Winston Churchill. These questions were: Are you in favor of home rule, meaning thereby an Irish Parliament with an executive responsible thereto, for the management of Irish affairs? Are you ready to use your influence to have home rule made a leading issue at the next general election?"

Thus writes Hon. T. P. O'Connor in his last budget to the Chicago Tribune. And he continues: "A moment's reflection will make you understand why the second question was even more important than the first. No Liberal nowadays is opposed in principle to home rule for Ireland, but that is not the difficulty. The real difficulty is that adhesion to home rule as a principle may mean two different and indeed almost conflicting things—either that home rule is simply a pious opinion to be held in the recesses of the individual politician's conscience or that it is a living and active issue which binds and carries it on to law at the first possible opportunity."

This strange and even paradoxical state of affairs is due to the fact that Asquith, Haldane, Grey and the other leaders of the Liberal imperialist section of the Liberal party had pledged themselves not to propose home rule in the present Parliament—their excuse being that they wanted Englishmen to concentrate on the struggle between free trade and protection. The Irish Nationalists are determined that no such situation shall arise again.

Mr. O'Connor also writes interestingly of the negotiations between Hon. Arthur Dewar, a Scotch lawyer, and the Irish Executive, of which the writer, Redmond, Dillon, Devlin and other leaders are members. He tells how the former Lord Advocate, which is Scotch for Attorney General, was boosted into the House of Lords. As a result of this Dewar was made Solicitor General, and the acceptance of office compelled him to resign his seat in South Edinburgh and to stand for re-election. In South Edinburgh there is a big Irish vote, and of course the two questions became very important in his case. To quote Mr. O'Connor again:

"Dewar is a home ruler of twenty years' standing, and he took the first pledge at once. But he also balked at the second question, and while ready to say that the sooner home rule was settled the better, and that it shall always hold a place in the forefront of the Liberal programme, he would not utter the sacramental words. One of the leading issues at the next general election." This made it clear that even at these elections, and that if it were necessary in order to awaken Liberal leaders to the grim reality of the situation and of the Irish demand, the Irish voters should help to put in a Tory. But again this vote for a Tory always objectionable to Irish Nationalists, was made more so by the fact that at that moment there was going on a debate in the House of Commons in which the 'carrion crows,' as Birrell once wittily called the Orangemen from Ulster, were engaged in their usual campaign of hate and calumny against Ireland, and were once more demanding coercion.

"So day after day they sat, adjourning, telegraphing, negotiating, until at last it came to Friday before the election, and even then negotiations seemed as far as ever from a satisfactory conclusion. And the meeting of the executive, which started at half past 12 o'clock, had to be postponed till half past 4. But then an intimation was given that no further delay was possible. By half past 4—and not a moment before—there came the message that Dewar would give the required answers; which meant, of course, that the leaders of the Liberal party were in agreement."

"That night Irish officials and speakers were on their way to Glasgow. Every one felt that the result of that election might be important, but that whatever happened the crisis had given a great step forward to the cause of Ireland; had brought home rule once more onto the forefront of the great political fight in the British constituencies, and that was a joyful news whatever else followed."

"Ireland is rather in the background in the House of Commons, and the center of interest has been transferred to Dublin, where even Timothy Healy has refused to back William P. O'Brien further, and the whole controversy has only served to solidify the masses of the Irish people in favor of the policy of John Redmond and his colleagues."

at Mobile, and represented one of the largest wards in the city.

When he left Mobile to come to Louisville several weeks ago he was the senior member of the real estate and insurance firm of Hughes, Morrill & Lyons, one of the largest dealers in that section of the South. During his many years in Mobile Mr. Hughes always took an active part in Catholic and Irish societies. He is now State President of the C. K. of A. for Alabama, and was formerly State Secretary of that organization. He has also served as State Vice President and State Treasurer of the A. O. H., and is now County President of the order in Mobile. Mr. Hughes has represented the Hibernians of Alabama at two national conventions. In addition to his membership in the A. O. H. and C. K. of A., Mr. Hughes is actively identified with the Knights of Columbus and is an Elk. Though a Northern man by birth, he has been identified with the Democratic party and is imbued with the best spirit of the South.

Mr. Hughes is a young man, and has had lots of experience. His energy is indefatigable, and his acquaintances predict that he will make good in his new field. He has been successful in all his undertakings, and before embarking in the real estate business was Chief Operator for the Western Union Telegraph Company at an important station in Mobile. He expects to remove his family to Louisville.

The Hughes Mercantile Company has gone into the mail order business and proposes to handle only standard goods, thus protecting their patrons from swindlers.

FRIENDLY SONS

Of St. Patrick Enjoyed Song and Story at the Seelbach.

The Louisville branch of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick and the lady friends of its members enjoyed St. Patrick's day with a dinner at the Seelbach, supplemented with music and oratory. Judge Matt O'Doherty was the toastmaster and was in his happiest mood. The main feature of the evening was the musical programme arranged and directed by Mrs. Mary Doyle Harig. All of the artists were first class and none but strictly Irish airs were given. The music reflected credit upon the cultivated taste of Mrs. Harig.

After a medley of Irish airs by Miss Imelda Shea, Mrs. T. A. Barrett sang "Come Back to Erin." Miss Rose Watson gave "Kathleen Mavourneen" and Douglas Webb rendered "Killarney."

There were two addresses, one by Judge Walter P. Lincoln, who dilated upon the fidelity and heroism of the Irish race, and the other by the Hon. Edward J. McDermott, whose subject was "A Story Without Words." In speaking of Ireland's exiles he said: "Those men who were forced to flee for their lives, for no cause whatever, have never forgotten the treatment accorded them. Wherever you find an Irishman he has standing in the community. They are at the front in every walk of life and England realizes, as well as every other nation, that the Irish have to be reckoned with."

MAMMOTH

Turnouts of Hibernians Twice in One Day Is Quite Encouraging.

Ladies' Auxiliary as Well as Men Attended Mass at St. Patrick's.

General Quarterly Meeting and Address From Judge O'Doherty.

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE FUTURE

Last Sunday seems to have marked an epoch in the history of local Hibernianism, for the religious celebration of the feast of St. Patrick in the morning was followed by a splendid attendance at the quarterly meeting in the afternoon. Between 400 and 500 Hibernians and members of the Ladies' Auxiliary attended the 6:30 o'clock mass at St. Patrick's church in the morning, and all approached holy communion. The Very Rev. Father James P. Cronin, who celebrated the mass, preached a brief sermon appropriate to the occasion and complimented the order on its large attendance. He admonished all to be as true to the faith as their ancestors had been in Ireland, and to love God and their neighbors.

In the afternoon at 2:30 o'clock the members of the four divisions assembled at Bertrand Hall, Sixth street, near Oak, where the second quarterly meeting of the year was held under the auspices of the County Board. County President P. J. Welsh presided and stated the purpose for which the meeting had been called, the discussion of any and all matters that would advance the order in this city and county. He introduced State President Butler, who said he was satisfied with the quality of membership in Louisville. The only thing lacking being quantity. He expressed his gratification over the splendid spectacle presented by the large attendance of members of the order and Ladies' Auxiliary in the morning at St. Patrick's church. Patrick T. Sullivan, President of Division 3, reported that the degree team was making excellent progress, and County President Welsh urged that a big joint initiation be held next month.

The presence of Judge Matt O'Doherty was noted, and in a few well chosen words he was presented to those assembled by County President Welsh. Judge O'Doherty said he had not come to make an address, but before he was allowed to sit down he had made one in the most stirring Irish speeches heard in Louisville in years. In brief he said the Irish have reason to be proud of the progress made during the past twenty-five years, and more especially in the last few years. Landlordism, the curse that had scattered the race all over the world, is almost dead. Thousands of the tenant farmers now own their own lands. Landlordism condemned the Irish to a life of poverty and toil without any hope of prosperity. When all the people of Ireland own their own land, said Judge O'Doherty, no name will stand higher than Michael Davitt, the father of the Land League. He also dwelt upon Daniel O'Connell and his efforts to secure the repeal of the union, which had been brought about by bribery and corruption. He urged Hibernians to follow O'Connell's example, to be earnest and faithful in their work for Ireland. The spirit of Christ and of the church must animate them in all their undertakings.

Charles J. Fingean announced that Division 1 and the Ladies' Auxiliary would give a ball at the Galt House on Easter Tuesday night. He extended an invitation to all Hibernians to co-operate with them in this undertaking. County Vice President Lynch suggested that hereafter when the Hibernians wanted to honor St. Patrick by receiving holy communion in a body that a Sunday be chosen upon which other societies did not approach the sacrament. Lawrence J. Mackey suggested the appointment of a committee to select speakers and subjects and to make other necessary arrangements for the next general quarterly meeting. The suggestion was adopted and County President Welsh named the four Hibernian committees from the various divisions to carry out the work.

William M. Higgins, editor of the Kentucky Irish American, said he was impressed with all he had heard during the afternoon, and expressed the belief that the lesson taught was one that would last. On motion of D. J. Coleman it was decided to invite the ladies of the auxiliary to the next general meeting. It was also decided to adopt the suggestion to invite the general public to the meeting in order that prospective candidates might learn what the order was doing. At the close of the meeting a rising vote of thanks was tendered Judge O'Doherty for his splendid address. It was decided to hold the next quarterly meeting in the evening instead of in the afternoon. At this juncture Attorney Newton G. Rogers was called upon, but owing to the late hour declined to address the gathering.

JEALOUS.

Automobile Wrecks Itself and Capsizes With Police Officers.

Revengeful Machine Had Not Been Invited to Glorious Feast.

Newspaper Men Barred Because They Tell Too Many Truths.

WHY NOT AN INVESTIGATION

Shakespeare or some other fluent philosopher years ago said: "Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned." Whoever he was he intended to epitomize jealousy, but it remains for the twentieth century to bring in a rival for a jealous woman. It is a jealous automobile. Louisville was the place, and Monday night or very early Tuesday morning in time. The dramatic person included Capt. Henry Meyer, of the Seventh Police district, and several other policemen besides the jealous automobile.

A new police station was opened at Eighteenth and Garland Monday night. There were speeches and refreshments and it was a grand night before the last guest departed. While the police feasted and were refreshed the automobile remained passively outside. Certain it is that the automobile got nothing to drink. Sometime after midnight, so the police say, a telephone message came for a hurry-up order of police to go to Thirty-fourth and Broadway. Capt. Meyer, his chauffeur, and other police entered the automobile and sped through the night air. They found all quiet at Thirty-fourth and Broadway. On the direction of Shawnee Park, and then turned in to Chestnut street. En route east another auto was approaching, and before the Gehu of the police car could turn aside there was a collision and the car owned by the taxpayers was wrecked. Fortunately none of the police were hurt, but it will cost several weeks and several more hundred dollars to repair the damage to the sullen jealous automobile.

Is it not a fact that the police from the wrecked automobile awakened a resident of the West End to telephone for a patrol wagon to come to their assistance? Is it not also true that when the patrol wagon hove in sight that the stranded police fired their revolvers in the air to attract the attention of the driver of the wagon?

Burglaries, robberies and other thefts have become so common recently that the police seem utterly powerless. Because one or two newspaper men dared to mention certain robberies, reporters have been barred from entering the officers' room at Central Police station. But how can they expect boy police to catch burglars.

Is it not a fact that Emmet O. Doody, a Lebanon merchant, was assaulted and robbed in the vicinity of Thirteenth and Main streets a few nights ago? Was he not even stripped of his clothing? Was he not found badly beaten about the head and taken into the car barn at Thirteenth and Main by employees of the Louisville Railway Company? Is it not true that the police admonished him to remain silent if he wished to recover his belongings?

What was behind Councilman Isidore Forst's resolution Saturday night? It broke up the council meeting. Mr. Forst wanted to have an investigation to see if some of the city fathers were not on corporation pay rolls. The mere hint caused consternation. If it is untrue the fact should be established. If it is true, let us have it.

CALLED HOME.

Well Known and Highly Esteemed Citizen Is No More.

John Lyons, for fourteen years a member of the Louisville police force, died at Hot Springs, Ark., Tuesday and his remains were brought to Louisville for burial. Mr. Lyons was born in Ireland sixty-five years ago. He was a man of robust build and gigantic stature, yet he was always quiet and even tempered. None ever heard of John Lyons abusing a prisoner either before or after arrest. He was more than ordinarily well versed in Irish and American history and politics. Aside from the veteran Henry Harlow there were few policemen, officers or privates who could hold their own with John Lyons in debate on ordinary topics.

Since his retirement from the police force Mr. Lyons made his home with his sisters, Misses Kate and Ellen Lyons, and a brother Terence Lyons, at 2812 South Third street. The funeral took place from Holy Name church yesterday morning, and the Rev. Father John T. O'Connor paid a fitting tribute to the memory of the deceased.

CENTRAL COMMITTEE.

The Central Committee, C. K. of A., will meet in special session at St. Mary's Hall, Eighth and Grayson streets, at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The object of the meeting is to hear reports of committees and to perfect arrangements for the musicale to be held during Easter week. A full attendance of delegates is desired.

ACTED WISELY.

Gov. Willson has repeatedly declined to call an extra session of the Kentucky Legislature for the purpose of extending the county unit law. Nevertheless a number of the preachers identified with the Anti-Saloon League addressed a letter to the Governor telling him of the mission they had been appointed to perform. Very wisely the State's Chief Executive advised them to save their breath and their railroad fare, giving them to understand that he would not call the extra session.

PUSH TARIFF BILL.

Congress met in special session Monday pursuant to a call issued by President Taft, and it is to be hoped that both branches will promptly expedite a tariff bill. Until the tariff question is settled it is vain to hope for a resumption of normal business conditions. The dealers in leather, in wood pulp, in lumber, in tobacco and in hundreds of other commodities are not going to buy raw material in large quantities until the tariff is fixed. When the question is settled the factories will reopen and prosperity will once more reign in the land.

LACK OF CARE.

The management of the Louisville Times apparently tried to do the right thing by the Irish this year, but it has yet to learn that the shamrock has only three leaves. St. Patrick preached the doctrine of the trine God, using the shamrock as an emblem. Moore wrote melodies about the shamrock and told how Love, Valor and Wit wandered, and yet the Louisville Times insists upon foisting a four leaved shamrock on the public. If its cartoonist would thoughtlessly draw the picture of a man with three legs or a woman with two tongues he would be fired. A little more care is all that is necessary.

TO BE COMMENDED.

Hon. M. C. Rankin, the State Commissioner of Agriculture, deserves to be commended for his work in seeking to prevent the farmers of Kentucky from the wiles of dealers in impure seeds, or rather adulterated seeds. Kentucky, despite her coal fields and other mineral resources, is essentially an agricultural State. Her hemp, tobacco and corn have reputations more than national, and to maintain that reputation her farmers must secure the best seed. The correspondence made public by Commissioner Rankin last week is not only interesting, but it shows that the Commissioner is keeping his eye on the gun.

INCITES MOB SPIRIT.

On Friday of last week the Louisville Evening Post sought in its leading editorial to excite mob violence; to arouse people to visit the Criminal Court room and to intimidate officials and jurymen in the trial of Robert J. Foster, who has been indicted on the charge of assault and battery. Foster is accused of brutally attacking a young and an inoffensive citizen and business man. This is the same Foster who was dishonorably discharged from the United States army and sentenced to serve a year in prison for conduct unbecoming a United States soldier. And this is not the only unsavory record that Foster has left in the United States army, but it is enough for the present. Since his arrival in the city and his becoming a policeman, detective and officer, he has left other unsavory records behind. This is the man that the Louisville Evening Post seeks to protect from the strong arm of the law.

The Post editorial says: "We ask the public to note this date. This officer is an object of attack because he is enforcing the laws."

That is not true! Foster is an object of attack because he is breaking the laws. A man with so vicious a temper has no right to be allowed to walk abroad with a gun or a blackjack. He has no right to be a policeman, and yet he is one of the much touted reformers of the Grinstead regime.

Editorials like those of the Post stir up strife, bloodshed and murder. It is the Post's sort of journalism that brought about the Cooper murder trial in Tennessee. Foster ought to be given a fair trial and a speedy one. No doubt he will get it, and if he does there should be a prompt enforcement of the punishment. The people of Louisville do not want thugs on the Louisville police force.

NEVER A SNOB.

It is well to dwell in a community where those who differ from you in race and creed speak well of you. It shows that you have been a good neighbor and a good citizen. People of the Irish race make good neighbors and good citizens, but are often denied a kindly word by those who are prejudiced against the Catholics and the "mere Irish." The Irish of Louisville must have proven to be good citizens, and must have attracted attention to their faith and nation when the Courier-Journal was moved to remark on Wednesday morning:

"Ireland: the more western of the two principal islands of which the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland is composed"—that is the way it appears in the Gazetteer, a dry and dreary publication given over exclusively to the collation of mere statistical facts and unconscious as uncaring of the discovery of the Isle of Man by one Hall Caine, an idle whose churches are accustomed Sundays to offer prayers for the "adjacent islands of Great Britain and Ireland!"

Ireland, whose early civilization gave tone and culture to Christendom; whose monastic institutions were as universities to the remoter centuries; who, while Briton and Saxon were repelling the Dane, hugged her insular security and sent missionaries to the kingdoms of Brittany, the principalities of Wales and the fastnesses of the Orkneys—where shall one find such other history of prowess and performance, of anguish and achievement, of courage and consolation?

Are not her saints the most glorious of the hagiology, her legends and lyrics the most securely of Christendom, the most unquestioned, her distinguished color the one accepted, acknowledged and universally adopted? They call her the "Distressful Country," and they have oppressed and harassed her since William of Orange and the battle of the Boyne, but the solid phalanx of her eighty odd members controls the destinies of the empire which again holds the balance of power in Europe. She is governed by the alien—and she returns the compliment by governing his dependencies, commanding his army, ruling his navy, editing his newspapers. She has more lawyers, more actors, more statesmen, more soldiers than she can use, and she distributes broadcast of her superabundance. Her beauties are the mothers of the British Empire, her writers have more salt and savor than the commonality.

Consider for a moment: Wellington was an Irishman and Wolsey and Kitchener, to speak only of England; so were Phil Sheridan and a myriad of the pluckiest fighters, on both sides of the civil war. You will find O'Donnells in Spain; a Fitzpatrick was Empress of the French, and a MacMahon their President; Pratts and Lynchess commanded the navies of Chile and Peru, and the principal street of Havana, for excellent reasons, is called Calle O'Reilly. Where heads were to be broken the sons of Erin, to use their own phrase, were never backward in coming forward; her Dufferins and her Mayos have been British pro-consuls in the days of greatest trouble. Matthews and Russell among the most brilliant and resourceful of her lawyers. Was not Goldsmith an Irishman and Sheridan and Burke; have not McCarthy and Lecky given us the best historical works of the century? Burns was a rare poet, but today is Moore's; the wizard of the North held us in willing thrall, no less did Lever and Maria Edgeworth. Sweet are the banks and braes of Bonnie Doon, but noble is Shannon water.

The Irishman is everywhere, and everywhere at home. He is of the aristocracy of mankind and is comfortable with vagabonds. He is a wanderer who builds a nest, a molder of empires and a disintegrator of petty communities; he promotes the era of general good feeling, stimulates hilarity, lightens our burdens. In the soft answer that turneth away wrath noise such an adept as he; as an unconscious humorist he defies competition; and always and everywhere he retains his pride of race, has small patience with mere pride of place, is rarely commonplace, never a snob.

No Irishman could expect a more eloquent tribute to his race or land! Hats off to the Courier-Journal.

Although an overwhelming majority of American workmen voted for prosperity last November, March finds the great steel, iron and coal companies reducing wages. Hurry up and settle that tariff question, please.

St. Patrick's day has come and gone and still Louisville is without filtered water. However, President Zorn urges the people to have a little more patience, and they will get filtered water some day. It is the old, old story.

The editor of the Catholic Sun of Syracuse very truthfully says: "The Irishman who does not rejoice on St. Patrick's day would not be glad in heaven."

When riches come in at the window, friends flick to the door.

When opportunity knocks it doesn't use a hammer.

GOOD CHEER

And Grand Oratory at the Chicago Irish Fellowship Club.

Among the many celebrations of St. Patrick's day in the United States there were few if any where more oratory was of higher note than at the Auditorium Hotel in Chicago, where the Irish Fellowship Club held its banquet on Tuesday instead of Wednesday night. The banquet hall was tinted with the brightest of green decorations.

John A. McGarry, the retiring President, was toastmaster, and the speakers and toasts were as follows: Francis O'Shaughnessy, "Gaelic Spirit"; Bernard J. Mullane, "The Irishman's Mission in America"; Hon. Daniel W. Lawler, Mayor of St. Paul, "Some Irish Achievements"; the Rev. Father John Cavanagh, President of Notre Dame University, "The Irish as Educators." Major Gen. Fred Grant was one of the guests of honor.

BOOK WORTH WHILE.

"Short Answers to Objections Against Religion" is the name of an instructive work that is being issued by the Vincentian Missionaries of Springfield, Mass. It is a translation from the French of Segur, edited and revised by the Rev. Father L. A. Lambert, LL.D., D.D. The Rev. Father C. Mennis, C.M., D.D., of St. John's Seminary, Brooklyn, N. Y., says the book is a handy repertoire, a little storehouse, an armory when one readily finds the right thing to say in answer to flippant flings at our holy religion. The books are being sold at fifteen cents each, but can be secured cheaper by buying in quantities.

WILL HARAHAN LEAVE?

Railroad circles were all stirred up early this week over the telegram from Los Angeles to the effect that J. T. Harahan, President of the Illinois Central Railroad Company, was to be transferred to the Presidency of the New York Central. Donald Rose, of Chicago, Assistant to President Harahan, promptly denied the report. He said that Messrs. Harahan and E. H. Harriman were to have a meeting at Pasadena, Cal., during the week, but said that otherwise there was no truth in the rumors. Leading railway men throughout the United States are skeptical about Mr. Harahan's going to New York.

tion of the Democratic party. In the event of Mr. Ray's election Mr. Schuster will be the Chief Deputy Assessor, a position that he is thoroughly qualified to fill. Mr. Schuster was born and has resided in Louisville since 1866, and for fifteen years was engaged in the grocery business, being associated with his brother, Charles F. Schuster. Later he became engaged in the livery business and for several years was President of the Liverymen's Exchange.

The friends of Mr. Schuster urged him to seek the nomination himself, but after much deliberation he decided to make the race in connection with Mr. Ray. Mr. Schuster is prominent in German-American circles in the city and is one of six brothers, all of whom are engaged in business in Louisville. He has never before engaged in politics except to exert his influence in behalf of his friends, and Mr. Ray is to be congratulated in securing as a running mate a man of Mr. Schuster's influence and ability. Mr. Schuster is a prominent member of the local lodge of Elks and was formerly President of the Retail Grocers' Association.

ANOTHER IRISH HEROINE.

Miss Mary McCann, of New York City, was presented with a life saving medal by the United States Congress on Thursday. Mary went to Washington to get what was coming to her and incidentally she was kissed by "Uncle Joe" Cannon, Speaker of the House. Mary was only fourteen years old when the steamer Gen. Slocum burned in 1904, yet she saved the lives of nine children. Her reward has been long delayed.

EXCELLENT CHOICE MADE.

Col. C. C. Mengel has been appointed a member of the Board of Waterworks Commissioners, to succeed Sam P. Jones, whose term expires in April. Although a Republican, Col. Mengel has always been a progressive and public spirited citizen, and his appointment is meeting with popular approval.

LENT HALF OVER.

Lent is rapidly drawing to a close. One week from tomorrow will be Passion Sunday. Palm Sunday and Easter will follow in quick succession. It is gratifying to the pastors of the various churches that the services in the evening have been unusually well attended both during the week and on Sundays.

ORPHANS CELEBRATE.

No celebration of St. Joseph's day in Louisville was more enjoyed than that of the children of St. Joseph's Orphan Asylum at Crescent Hill yesterday. In the morning at 10 o'clock the orphans assisted at mass in the asylum chapel, and in the afternoon sat down to a little feast in honor of their patron.

BISHOP IN FLORIDA.

HIBERNIANS.

What They Have Been Doing
the Past Week—General
News Notes.

The newest branch of the order in Syracuse marched 200 strong in the St. Patrick's day parade.

Division 3, Ladies' Auxiliary of Minneapolis, will confer the degrees on a large class at its meeting next week.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Paris held its regular monthly meeting at the home of its President, Miss Nellie Schwartz.

Division 2 of Syracuse, N. Y., initiated twenty-five new members last week, and another large class was initiated before St. Patrick's day this week.

A class of forty-two members received into the Milwaukee division on March 7 brought the membership up to 650, making it the largest in the world.

Members to the number of 1,200 marched to St. Anne's church at Manchester, N. H., last Sunday morning and in a body received holy communion.

Former National President James
E. Dolan is as much interested in Irish affairs as ever. Last week he delivered a lecture before Le Moyne Council, of Syracuse, on "New Ireland."

The division at North Walpole, N.
H., displayed the true spirit when it resolved to forego the St. Patrick's day banquet in favor of Father Grif-fin's entertainment in aid of his parish school.

A choral society has been organized by the Hibernians of St. Louis.
St. Louis members of the order are arranging for their grand annual ball, which is to take place soon after Easter.

Buffalo Hibernians had a monster initiation Monday night, participated in by all the divisions in Erie county.
The address to the new members was made by Very Rev. John J. Nash, D. D., County Chaplain.

Escorted by the Hibernian Rifles
1,500 members of the order attended solemn vespers at the Baltimore Cathedral last Sunday to do honor to their patron, St. Patrick. Cardinal Gibbons attended the services and pronounced the benediction.

The St. Louis County Board is doing all in its power to stimulate the study of Irish history in the schools, and has provided a scholarship each year at the Christian Brothers' College for the boy who makes the highest percentage in its study.

The Milwaukee division, attended by the Catholic Foresters, the Holy Name Society and the Catholic Knights, filled St. Patrick's church at the mass Wednesday morning in honor of Ireland's patron saint and made the day a memorable one in the Irish annals of that city.

The Covington Library Auditorium was thronged Wednesday night to witness the entertainment of the Hibernians and Ladies' Auxiliary in honor of Ireland's apostle, St. Patrick. Special services were held at many churches and the feast day fittingly observed by the order in general.

St. Patrick's day was celebrated by the Ancient Order at Wilmington, Del., with a mass meeting at the Grand Opera House. Rev. Edward Brady presided and addresses were delivered by Right Rev. John Monaghan, State Chaplain, and Rev.
Father Currier, of Washington, D. C.
Irish and national anthems comprised the musical programme.

"EL CAPITAN."

Cecilian Choral Club Con-
plating Another Opera.

The Louisville public may expect a rare treat in the way of comic opera when the Cecilian Choral Club presents John Philip Sousa's "El Capitan" during the first week in May.
Rehearsals are continuing in progress and every member of the cast and chorus is doing his or her part to make the two performances successful. The Cecilian Choral Club is made up of the young ladies and gentlemen who gave such a splendid series of performances at the Catholic Women's Club a year ago.

"El Capitan" was one of the best vehicles for his humor that De Wolf Hopper ever brought to Louisville, although it has not been heard here within a decade. The music is by Sousa, the noted bandmaster and composer. Both the music and words are sparkling and attractive.
J. J. Flynn, the "Ko-Ko" of last year, will appear in the leading role.
Others who will appear in the cast will be announced later.

Leo A. Schmitt, the talented organist of St. Patrick's choir, who directed the rehearsals of the Cecilian Choral Club for the performances of "El Capitan."

XAVIERIAN BROTHERS.

The Xaverian Brothers in the United States number about two hundred and fifty, and are in charge of twenty-six institutions. The Superior General of the Congregation and the Provincial have just finished a tour of inspection of the Western houses. St. Xavier's College, Louisville, is their largest institution west of the Allegheny mountains.

FORTY HOURS' PRAYER.

Tomorrow morning the solemn and impressive Forty Hours' adoration will begin with high mass at St.
Augustine's church, Fourteenth and Broadway. Rev. Father Felten and the Altar Society will have the sanctuary tastefully decorated and brilliantly lighted for these services, which will conclude Tuesday.

AWAITS DEDICATION.

It has been officially announced that the new St. Mary's of the Knobs will be dedicated with impressive ceremonies on Sunday, May 20.
The contract for painting the new edifice has been completed. The church cost $25,000, and occupies a site on one of the highest points of the Indiana knobs.

best known railroad men in Southern Indiana, will represent his section

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS.

Late News That Will Interest
Members Here and Elsewhere.

The council at Dubuque, Iowa, will swell its membership to 500 at an initiation to be held next month.

The councils at St. Genevieve, Mo., are preparing to have a joint initiation on April 18, and many Knights from St. Louis are expected to be present.

Milwaukee Knights have secured Bishop Keane, of Cheyenne, for a six-day series of lectures to Catholics and non-Catholics. The date for his visit has not yet been decided.

Thursday night Bishop Carroll Council tendered a reception to the Right Rev. Camillus Maes, Bishop of Covington, the occasion being the most memorable in the council's history.

Plans have been submitted to the Knights at Newport, Ky., calling for the erection of a building to cost $30,000. The committee has in view several desirable locations for the edifice.

St. Louis Knights are preparing for their carnival which is to be held during the whole week, April 12 to 17. Not only are the Knights interested, but their children and lady friends as well.

De Andreas Council of St. Louis, Mo., heard a splendid lecture last night from the Rev. Father F. X.
McCabe, C. M., a noted missionary.
All of the other councils were represented at the lecture.

Right Rev. Bishop Keane will deliver a series of six public lectures under the auspices of Buffalo
Knights the last week of this month.
It is estimated that fully 60,000 people heard the series given recently in Denver.

SIGHS FOR HOME.

Pathetic Tale Told by Irish Maiden to New York
Judge.

Mary Martin, a fifteen-year-old Irish girl, told an amusing and at the same time a pathetic tale in the Children's Court, New York City,
last Saturday. She told Judge Mayo that if he would make it possible for her to go back to Ireland, whence she came three years ago, she would be happy.

"The United States is all right for me," the girl said, "but I think a girl can have a better time in Ireland. My mother lives in County Roscommon, and she is anxious to have me go back home. Since coming to this country I have lived with uncles and aunts and cousins, and I ran away from them because I was so homesick for my mother."

Judge Mayo directed that the girl be remanded, pending the result of an inquiry into the best way in which to send her to her mother.

"I'm much obliged to you, Judge," said she, as she left the dock, "but I've given the United States a fair trial, and I'm not suited here, and I want to go home. A lot of people come over here and, although they are homesick, they don't have courage to go back. I want to go back, and I'll tell all the girls I know over there that a girl has a better time in Ireland than she has in America."

IMPROVES RAPIDLY.

Isaac F. Whiteside, who recently submitted to an operation for throat trouble, is improving rapidly at his home in Jeffersonville. His physicians believe he will soon be able to resume his business duties.

CATHOLIC PROGRESS.

Religion is making great progress in Texas. During the month of February three new temples were dedicated to the service of God and work on the construction of two others began.

GENEROUS PROPOSAL.

The General Education Board of the city of St. Paul, Minn., has voted $75,000 to St. Thomas College, a Catholic institution, on condition that $25,000 be raised by the college from other sources within a reasonable time.

MILLION DOLLAR EDIFICE.

Easter will be an occasion of great joy this year to the parishioners of the Church of Our Lady of Perpetual Help, Fifth avenue and Fifty-ninth street, New York City, for on that day the new million-dollar church will be used for services for the first time.

TITULAR BISHOPS.

For good and sufficient reasons the Catholic church from time to time appoints titular Bishops—that is prelates without residential sees, and at present there are nearly 400
titular Archbishops, Bishops, Coadjutors, Auxiliaries, Vicars Apostolic or prelates who have been raised to the episcopal dignity on account of the position they occupy or the great service they have rendered to the church.

RAILROAD HERO.

James Delmore, a locomotive engineer on the Omaha railroad between Marsfield, Wis., and Marri-llan, is the latest railroad hero. He was forcing his locomotive through terrible snow drifts at the rate of forty miles an hour last Saturday when the cab window broke and a piece of the flying glass cut a gash in his throat. He remained at the throttle until he had landed his train in safety twenty miles further on.

FEDERATION DATES.

The dates set for the eighth national convention of the American Federation of Catholic Societies are August 3, 9, 10 and 11. The convention will take place at Pittsburg, and Bishop Regis Canavin heads the Committee of Arrangements. There will be two mass meetings at Carnegie Hall, on Sunday and Tuesday evenings, respectively. Prominent speakers will deliver addresses on timely subjects.

REPORTS

Made to Central Committee Shows Progress in Affairs of C. K. of A.

Musicals and Vaudeville Show Will Be Given After Easter.

Plan Under Way to Issue Handy Directory of Members and Officers.

BIG INITIATION TO BE HELD

The Central Committee of the C. K. of A. held a rousing meeting Friday night of last week, and the principal theme of discussion was the annual musical and vaudeville entertainment to be given under the auspices of the committee on Wednesday evening following Easter. President Schalla presided and all the officers were present except Trustee Murphy. On behalf of the Entertainment Committee, Ben Speaker reported that the best talent in the city had been secured for the forthcoming entertainment, and promised a show that would surprise and enthrall all the members. His remarks were received with applause. Harry A. Veeneman, for the Membership Committee, announced that the next visits would be paid to St. Anthony's and St. Boniface's Branches. The visit to the former will be paid on the first Tuesday in April. He also stated that the committee was making satisfactory progress in its work.

Delegate Deisch, of St. Anthony's Branch, made an inspiring though brief address, and William T. Meehan told what the Ritual Committee was doing. He also told that the Supreme officers were ready to help the Louisville Knights in every way possible. He said that contracts for paraphernalia had been let, and that costumes, etc., would be ready early next month, when it is planned to hold a big initiation. According to the statement of Major Gen. Michael Reichert in behalf of the Labor Committee all the members of the order in Louisville were employed.

Henry Bosquet made several splendid suggestions for the society's advancement, and urged the Knights to issue a directory of the officers and members. He said further that a more fraternal spirit would be productive of an increased membership. His name was added to those already on the Membership Committee. Gen. Reichert urged greater publicity for the order and fuller press reports of the meetings of the various branches. Messrs. Veeneman, Bosquet and Meehan were appointed a special committee to arrange for a directory of officers and members.

Newton G. Rogers reported that Branch 4 was making excellent progress, and said that the order is now resting on easy street. It was announced that Branch 25 had lost two members during the past month, but that two new members would be initiated at the next meeting.

SPIRITED DEBATES

On Timely Matters Enlivened Mackin Council's Meeting.

Mackin Council had a good crowd and a spirited meeting Monday night. President Louis J. Kieffer occupied the chair and nearly all the officers were present. Henry Everstage, George Bartsch and David Hummel, who have been on the sick list, were reported improving. The Mackin Social Club reported that its series of ante-lenten dances had been successful and turned in a nice sum into the council treasury.

Under the head of good of the order a lively discussion arose concerning the funeral benefit laws, and it is quite likely that a change in them will be made in the near future. The members have decided to make their Easter communion at St. Cecilia's church on Passion Sunday.

Two questions in Christian doctrine are to be discussed at the meeting Monday night—What is the significance of Lent? and how should a practical Catholic conduct himself during that holy season? Both questions will be open to general discussion. It was also announced that Camden R. McAtee would address the members of the council on an appropriate topic at the last meeting in March.

The Opera Committee reported progress and also that Miss Stella Tusceden had been secured as the prima donna for the forthcoming production of "Back to Town."

FATHER KOENIG'S NERVE TONIC
Recommended by Clergymen. 11
Mr. Peter Kirschbann writes from Glenhagen, Wis. My son three years old was afflicted with Epilepsy. I tried 3 different doctors but he kept on getting worse until Rev. F. J. Jones told me to try Father Koenig's Nerve Tonic. In all he took 4 bottles and no sign of the sickness has shown since. In 20 months while he took the Tonic he spells came on regular, now he is well.

Rev. P. J. Weber writes on Nov. 14, 1906, from Earl Park, Ind.: Mr. Nelson Moray used bottles of Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic against Epilepsy and has not had an attack since, also Mr. Arthur Parodi of this city after using one bottle of the Tonic was freed from the same ailment.

Mr. J. J. Magin on August 31, 1908, writes from Evansville, Ind.: Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic entirely cured me of headache and I cannot praise the medicine enough and will recommend it to all sufferers.

FREE A Valuable Book on Nervous Diseases and a Sample bottle to any address. Poor patients also get the medicine free. Prepared by the Rev. F. J. Jones, of Fort Wayne, Ind., since 1876, and now by the KOENIG MED. CO., Chicago, Ill. 100 Lake Street. Sold by Druggists at $1 per Bottle, 5 for $5. Large Size, $1.75; 6 bottles for $9.

RAISED THE FLAG.

Wily Newspaper Reporter Put One Over On the Mayor.

A select coterie of newspaper men are telling among themselves "How Fitz raised the flag." The Fitz in question is Edward Fitzpatrick, the urbane representative of the Louisville Times at the City Hall. As the story goes Mr. Fitzpatrick entered Mayor Grinstead's office early Wednesday morning. The Mayor had no news.

"Why is not the flag raised on the tower?" asked Fitz.
"Why should it be?" queried the Mayor in return.
"This is a national holiday," responded the newspaper man.
"Is it?" said the Mayor. "When you go out tell the janitor to raise the flag."

The flag was raised, and Fitz did not have to tell whose national holiday it was.

BAILL FINDS FAVOR.

The project of Division 1, A. O. H., and the Ladies' Auxiliary to give a select ball at the Galt House on Easter Tuesday evening is meeting with popular approval and the committee feels much encouraged from all the compliments paid its forethought. While it is to be a select affair, it has been necessary to order several hundred additional invitations. Dainty souvenir pins will be presented each of the guests as they enter the ball room.

FOR COUNTY JUDGE.

Friends of Judge Charles A. Wilson announce that he has consented to make the race for County Judge of Jefferson county, subject to the action of the Democratic party. He made an excellent Judge before and was the founder of Louisville's Juvenile Court system. His admirers claim he will be hard to beat.

ST. JOSEPH

Honored by the Church During the Entire Month of March.

Friday was a Day of Particular Devotion to Holy Man.

Patron and Pattern for Those Who Believe in Brotherly Love.

WHAT HIS LIFE REPRESENTS

The Catholic church all over the globe honored St. Joseph last Friday. It is a fixture on the church calendar. Year by year March 19 is St. Joseph's day, just as March 17 is St. Patrick's day. St. Joseph was the foster father of our Divine Saviour, his guardian in his youth and the patron of the church which Christ founded. Pious Catholics often unite the names of Jesus, Mary and Joseph in their prayers. Every church has its St. Joseph's altar and statue. The whole month of March is dedicated by the church to him in a special manner.

To the inordinate grasping of wealth on the one hand and to the restless, discontented, agitating worker on the other, St. Joseph, quiet and God-fearing, secure in his conviction that the present life is but a trial and not a reward, that we are here today and that we are there tomorrow, that He who has clad the lilies in their radiant garb, and who noeth every sparrow's fall, stands as a model and guide to cement the interests of both those classes and to unite the whole world into that longed-for harmony which the clamoring advocates of new social theories so loudly promise, but so vainly strive to effect.

FAR OFF PANAMA

Heard From Through Former Louisville Residents.

That the Kentucky Irish American is read and appreciated in the Panama Canal Zone is evidenced by a letter received this week from Mrs. Charles I. Cate, formerly of this city, who joined her husband at Gorgona about a year ago. She writes in part: "We still get our dear little paper and we certainly enjoy it. Then we hand it over to some lonesome bachelor. We thought maybe you would like to glance over our Recoru concerning the dance for the new church."

The women of Gorgona recently organized a Catholic Ladies' Club, and Mrs. Cate has been elected President. Last month the club gave a dance in the Y. M. C. A. club house at Gorgona for the benefit of the Church of the Holy Redeemer at Culebra, the only Catholic church in the zone. Special trains brought large delegations from Pedro Miguel, Culebra and Las Cascadas. A contest to decide who was the most popular lady in the three clubs was won by Mrs. Wade, of Gorgona, with Miss McGowan, of Las Cascadas, second. The sum of $638 was realized for the church building fund as a result of the evening's entertainment.

INTERNAL INJURIES

Sustained by Ursuline Nun While En Route to School.

Sister Evangelista, the Ursuline nun who was knocked down and run over by a team owned by the Standard Oil company last Tuesday morning, is suffering from internal injuries and is confined to her bed at the Ursuline Convent, Shelby and Chestnut streets. In company with Sisters Julid and Closius she alighted from a car at Sixth and Hill streets, and was en route to St. Ann's school, at Seventh and Hill, where she is engaged in teaching.

While the nuns were passing through the viaduct the team came behind them suddenly. Two of the nuns jumped aside, but Sister Evangelista fell beneath the horses' hoofs. She was removed to the Ursuline Convent, and medical aid summoned, but up to the present her condition is quite precarious.

FORTY HOURS.

Forty Hours prayer will begin at St. Mary's church, New Albany, at the 10 o'clock mass tomorrow, and will close with benediction and the singing of the "Te Deum" on Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.
